

Forrest Eber is a co-founder and Managing Partner for Intersection Ventures, a boutique advisory and investment firm that focuses on sports business and start-up investment opportunities. Select current & past Intersection Ventures' clients include the ownership group that recently launched San Diego Loyal SC, a MLS franchise making final preparations for its $200mm+ stadium project, a U.S.-based ownership group of an English Premier League club, and an ownership group finalizing the acquisition of a team in the National Basketball League (NBL) in Australia.

Prior to co-founding Intersection Ventures, Forrest served as Chief Financial Officer for Orlando City Soccer Club, where he helped oversee the club's business operations and served as the organization's lead on design and preparations for construction of the downtown stadium project. During his time, Orlando City was hailed by Sports Business Journal as one of the top professional sports expansion launches in history and the stadium design was later called a "Blueprint for the Future" by Don Garber. Eber served on Louisville City FC's Board of Directors from launch and into its inaugural season and worked closely with LCFC ownership on the club's initial business plan. He also previously worked in the Office of the C.E.O. for the U.S. Soccer Federation where he focused on a variety of special projects, including serving on the Executive Committee operating the 2003 FIFA Women's World Cup. Forrest served as CFO and Associate Commissioner of the West Coast Conference (WCC) from 2011-13.

Eber grew up in Northern California and graduated from UNC Chapel Hill with a degree in Economics.
